The Next Generation Committee (NGC) of the Inter-Pacific Bar Association (IPBA) supports young lawyers in the Asia-Pacific region through networking, skill-building, and mentorship programs. It offers seminars, workshops, and international exchange opportunities to help members develop professionally. Additionally, the NGC advocates for young lawyers' interests within the IPBA and the wider legal community, contributing to their success and the advancement of the legal profession. If you are an IPBA member, you can join by logging into “My IPBA” and selecting the “Next Generation Committee”.

AIJA, International Association of Young Lawyer, is the only global association devoted to lawyers and in-house counsel aged 45 and under. Since 1962 AIJA provides outstanding international opportunities for young lawyers to network, learn and develop. AIJA currently has 4,000 members and supporters in 100+ different countries, including over 60 collective members and Bar Associations. The AIJA community is very diverse, as members come from law firms of all sizes and cultures. AIJA is committed to defend and take active part in promoting core legal principles, such as the rule of law and human rights principles. While respecting the integrity of each civilized society of the world, a particular aim of AIJA is to advance cross-cultural understanding between members and other participants in the legal profession as a whole.
